Formatting the reference list

References are provided in two versions — Russian and English. Foreign-language sources in the Russian list are given with a translation in square brackets.

REQUIREMENTS

Two versions. The Russian list is mandatory: all sources in Russian, foreign ones with a translation in [square brackets]. The English list is mandatory and complete. A separate Chinese list is not required.

What to include. Peer-reviewed scholarly sources only: journal articles, monographs, archival and catalogued materials. Laws, dictionaries, encyclopaedias and textbooks are not included — cite them in the text in brackets.

Volume. At least 20 sources; at least one third foreign; at least half published in recent years.

Order and in-text citations. Alphabetical: Russian-language sources first, then foreign. In-text citations in square brackets: [1], [1, p. 57], [5–7]. Footnotes are not used.

English list format. International standard used by Scopus- and Web of Science-indexed journals: surname followed by initials after a comma (Alekseev, V. M.); city and publisher written out in English without abbreviations (Moscow: Nauka, 1978); pages as p. / pp.; issue numbers as No.
